SCHOOL HIGHLIGHT

Changes in Martinpur

With the completion and opening of the new primary school building in September 2025, the campus of PEB's Christian Girls' High School in Martinpur needed to be thoughtfully updated in a few ways to accommodate the change in infrastructure layout. To make space for this new building, the old tuck shop had to be removed, along with sections of the existing security wall. This created an opportunity to rebuild these essential spaces better than before.

A healthier lunch break—right on campus

The nearly completed tuck shop will soon transform daily life at Martinpur, once final painting is finished. Located on campus, it allows students to use their break time effectively by providing convenient access to affordable food and drinks without needing to leave school grounds. With meals prepared under school management, students receive fresh, hygienic food that promotes healthy eating habits and supports their well-being.

Reliable access to regular meals helps reduce illness-related absences, and ensures that every student—regardless of economic background—can enjoy nutritious food during the school day. The result is a safer, healthier environment where students can stay focused on learning and play.

Beyond supporting students, the tuck shop also has the potential to serve the surrounding community, since it is located at the edge of campus. It will create opportunities for connection, provides safe food options for local families, and contribute to the school's long-term sustainability.

Stronger security for a safer school

Alongside the tuck shop, the security wall was rebuilt, and a new gate and security booth were added. Guards now have a proper space to work, and the controlled entrance significantly improves campus safety, helping ensure a secure, welcoming environment for everyone on campus.

These rebuilt and upgraded spaces reflect a bigger commitment: as Martinpur grows, so does our investment in the health, safety, and well-being of every student.
